QUOTE:

“It is one of the few pieces of software that we have deployed that does its job quietly and reliably, with the minimum of fuss, minimal amounts of attention and the lowest amount of administration.”

– John Nolan, IT Manager
Nolan Transport

“The company grew very quickly from a small group of people with little reliance on PC’s or IT infrastructure in general to a very large operation with heavy reliance on computers and associated services. Trying to establish some standards with regards to AV software in this rapidly changing environment was what made us look at ESET NOD32. In examining the anti-virus market at the time, which was dominated by Norton and McAfee, we felt that these offerings were too expensive and very unwieldy in terms of “ease of use” and furthermore would lead to large overheads in terms of cost and administration. Both products were deemed highly unsuitable for our operation. We then did a 30-day trial with ESET NOD32 and were extremely happy with the ease of installation and the low hardware resource consumption.

The daily update of the AV signatures also means that it’s a “load and forget it” with regards to the PC’s on the LAN. Since full deployment has taken place we have never experienced any problems and have seen the software only improve in functionality over the past 5 years.

It is one of the few pieces of software that we have deployed that does its job quietly and reliably, with the minimum of fuss, minimal amounts of attention and the lowest amount of administration. We have no qualms about recommending it to anyone.”
